

Notice from FEMA

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) recently authorized you to move into a hotel because you were unable to return to your pre-disaster home.

This notice is to inform you that FEMA has granted you an extended stay in the hotel and that FEMA will no longer continue to pay for your hotel effective Saturday, January 17, because one of the following applies to you:

- As a result of our inspection, FEMA has determined that you can live in your home

OR

- at the time you registered, you indicated that you had no home damage or your home damage was unknown and we have not heard from you to schedule an inspection

OR

- at the time you registered, you indicated that you had homeowner's insurance and we advised you to contact your insurance company

If you remain in the hotel beyond check out time on Saturday, January 17, 2009, you will be responsible for any further costs.

If you believe you have received this notice in error please call the FEMA Helpline at 1-800-621-FEMA (3362) (hearing or speech impaired, call 1-800-462-7585). If you have any other disaster related questions, visit www.fema.gov and click on Apply for Assistance for more information or call the FEMA Helpline.
